Preface Message

The Emergency Management Agency goes back to the Civil Defense program of the late 1940's and 1950's. In the 1970's, with a softening of the threat of nuclear warfare between the superpowers, the Civil Defense program added planning and preparedness for natural hazards to its responsibilities (with nuclear preparedness remaining primary).

With this new area of concern the evolution continued, with "CD" evolving into DSA (Disaster Services Agency) in the early 1980's and eventually becoming today's Emergency Management Agency. EMA was charged with emergency planning and preparedness for all hazards. The four aspects of emergency management are Preparation, Response, Recovery, and Mitigation.

The county commissioners in 1989 under O.R.C. 5915.071 established the Butler County Emergency Management Agency, with local jurisdictions signing an agreement with the county emergency management agency for services.

Our society is based upon a network of systems that both complement and depend upon each other. These include our government and essential services, banking institutions, utilities, commerce, industry, and education. These systems on which we rely (and which we tend to take for granted) are dependent upon reliable, planned, supply and support structures. All works well as long as nothing outside of the plan upsets the system. Think of how irritating it is to have a mere traffic slow-down due to construction. Now consider how your life might be impacted if there were a major electric power disruption that lasted for several weeks. No traffic lights, television, microwaves, or refrigerators.

It is the task of the Emergency Management Agency to plan for the unplanned. When we hear news about disasters outside of our community, it is difficult to realize the true scope of disruption that can impact a community. Major natural disasters can strike anywhere, anytime. The San Francisco earthquake, Hurricane Andrew, Hurricane Katrina, The Gulf Coast Hurricanes, The Midwest Flood events, The Twin Towers and Oklahoma City bombings are a few notable examples.

Additionally, there is the possibility of a man-made disaster, such as the nuclear plant explosion in Chernobyl, in the former Soviet Union, in which tens of thousands of people were affected. The less disastrous but potentially catastrophic Three Mile Island incident also illustrates that we need to have contingencies in place.

How to manage the emergency is what this agency is all about. Every disaster scenario is unique in its cause and impact. The common thread that binds together all disaster response priorities is the need to protect human life. This starts with the basics — coordinating shelter, sustenance, and medical care. At the same time, the Emergency Management Agency is involved with coordinating recovery/mitigation activities and acts as the supply and support resource for those efforts.

County-wide emergency information phone number

The Butler County Emergency Management Agency and the Butler County Sheriff's Office have established a County-wide emergency information hotline for emergency phone messages.

The number to call is 513-785-5800 for a current phone message on the County status during an emergency or other event.

This emergency hotline will be available 24 / 7 and messages will be updated as needed. The phone line will allow multiple calls at once in the case of a large volume of people needing information.

Information maybe County-wide or for a specific location or emergency.

Citizens of Butler County are encouraged to utilize this service and not call 911 for non-emergency information.

Butler County Community Emergency Response Team (CERT)

Local government prepares for everyday emergencies. However, during a disaster, the number and scope of incidents can overwhelm conventional emergency services. Community based preparedness planning allows us to prepare for and respond to anticipated disruptions and potential hazards following a disaster. As individuals, we can prepare our homes and families to cope during the critical period.

The Community Emergency Response Team (CERT) concept was developed and implemented by the City of Los Angeles Fire Dept (LAFD) in 1985. They recognized that citizens would very likely be on their own during the early stages of a catastrophic disaster and initiated some basic training in disaster survival and rescue skills for survival until responders or other assistance could arrive. In 1994 The Emergency Management Institute in cooperation with the LAFD, expanded the CERT materials to make them applicable to all hazards. In 2003, President Bush asked all Americans to volunteer in the service of their country. CERT training was selected as one of the primary programs offered to meet the challenge of harnessing the power of every individual through education, training and volunteer service to make communities safer, stronger and better prepared to respond to the threats of terrorism, public health issues and disasters of all kinds.

Start a Cert Program in Your Community

CERT is about readiness, people helping people, rescuer safety and doing the greatest good for the greatest number. People who go through CERT training have a better understanding of the potential threats to their home, workplace and community and can take the right steps to lessen the effects of these hazards. We are committed to making this program widespread throughout Butler County.

CERTs can be created within already organized groups in your community. Some examples include....

- Neighborhood Watch Organizations
- Businesses
- Faith Based-Groups
- Scouting Organizations
- School Staff/Students

Public Emergency Information & Emergency Action Procedures

THIS PUBLIC SAFETY INFORMATION HAS BEEN DEVELOPED BY YOUR TRI-STATE
EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT AGENCIES

The primary mission of emergency service providers and public safety departments is to save and protect lives, property, and the environment. Accomplishing this mission requires a cooperative effort between public safety departments, the media, and you as an individual. Your cooperation and personal preparedness are critical in helping us protect you and your family.

There are several things you can do to be better prepared for an emergency. Remember that it may be some time before emergency responders can reach you, depending on the type and scale of the natural or technological emergency, or combination of emergencies occurring. You can be better prepared by doing the following:

- Prepare an “Emergency Supply Kit” for your home to include a battery-powered tone alerting NOAA weather radio and portable radio, flashlight, extra batteries, canned and ready-to-eat food, matches, non-electric can opener, first aid supplies (including essential medications) and bottled water.
- Participate in community and family emergency preparedness planning by learning CPR, first aid, lifesaving techniques, and taking time to develop a family emergency plan.
- Establish “buddy systems” to assist elderly, handicapped, or individuals with special needs to assure they are safe or get help.

LOCAL HAZARD THREATS

We all are exposed to potential hazard threats. The most probable hazard threats we face are major river floods, local flash floods, hazardous materials releases, severe weather (severe thunderstorms and tornadoes), winter storms, and disruptions of utility services. The list is not limited to these only, but these are the most likely to occur in our area.

HOW YOU WILL BE INFORMED OF AN EMERGENCY

Prior to, during, and after an emergency, you may be notified by any of the following methods:

- Local broadcast media (television, radio) announcements
- Outdoor warning sirens
- Tone alert and tone alerting NOAA weather radios
- Emergency vehicle public address systems
- Door-to-door notification by emergency services
- Telephone calls and notification systems
- Some counties in our area are using the National Weather Service’s NOAA Weather Radio system to warn for non-weather emergencies such as life threatening airborne hazardous materials releases. If you have recently purchased a programmable weather radio, you must be sure that it is programmed to receive a Civil Emergency Message (CEM) for your county. Contact your county Emergency Management Agency for more information and assistance.

WHAT YOU SHOULD DO IF YOU ARE ALERTED TO AN EMERGENCY

- Stay calm.
- Go or stay indoors and tune to local radio and television stations to receive emergency information. The Emergency Alert System (EAS) has been created to provide essential emergency information. Local broadcast media participate in the EAS and are dedicated to helping protect you.
- You may be alerted to a problem that may or may not pose an immediate danger to the community. You will be advised if there is a potential for escalation into a more serious situation. If you are informed of a potential problem, you should wait until you are advised as to what action to take.
- Instructions will be given as soon as official information is available, messages will be repeated as necessary.
- Limit use of your telephone to personal emergencies - DO NOT CALL “911” for emergency information. Unnecessary use of telephones may interfere with the delivery of emergency services to those that have real emergencies.

SEVERE WEATHER EMERGENCY

Tornadoes are formed by severe thunderstorms, they can occur at any time but most frequently in the spring and summer. Local severe weather (severe thunderstorm and tornado) watches and warnings are issued by the National Weather Service and announced on NOAA weather radio and local radio and television. Outdoor warning sirens sound a steady tone to warn of severe weather. Contact your local Emergency Management Agency to learn when your outdoor warning sirens are used.

- A SEVERE WEATHER WATCH is given when weather conditions become favorable to the formation of severe weather. During severe weather keep an eye on the weather and be prepared to take shelter immediately if local conditions worsen.
- A SEVERE WEATHER WARNING is given when severe weather is occurring or will occur soon. You should take shelter immediately.

WHAT SHOULD YOU DO IF YOU ARE ALERTED TO A SEVERE WEATHER WARNING

- Go to a place of safety to protect yourself from falling and flying debris. Monitor radio, television, and National Weather Service’s weather radio to be advised of current severe weather information.
- In a building, move to the basement or an interior hallway, closet, or bathroom on the lowest floor available away from windows.
- If you are in a car or mobile home, leave and go to a safe shelter.
- If outside, lie flat in the nearest ditch, ravine, or culvert with your hands shielding your head and be aware of possible flash flooding.
- Never try to outrun severe weather — on foot or in a car.

LIGHTNING

- All thunderstorms produce lightning. Lightning kills more people each year than tornadoes.
- When you hear thunder, take shelter in an appropriate building and stay away from objects that conduct electricity.

HAZARDOUS MATERIALS EMERGENCY

WHAT YOU SHOULD DO IF YOU ARE TOLD TO “SHELTER-IN-PLACE”

You may be asked to “Shelter-In-Place” if a hazardous material has been released to the air and there is not enough time to safely evacuate. This protective action is designed to minimize your exposure to potential harmful materials in the air.

- Stay calm.
- Take your family and pets inside your home and remain there.
- Turn to local radio and television and listen for Emergency Alert System (EAS) information, instructions and updates.
- Close and lock all windows and doors in your home.
- Turn off all air conditioners, fans, vents, and heating systems, etc. that draw in outside air.
- Close fireplace damper.
- DO NOT CALL “911” for emergency information. Use the phone only for emergency calls.
- Go to the highest room above ground (not the basement) with the fewest windows and doors.
- Take your Home Emergency Supplies Kit with you to this room.
- If necessary, place damp towels in the cracks under doors. Tape around doors, windows, and exhaust fans or vents. Use plastic to cover windows, outlets and heat registers.
- If necessary, children at affected schools will be sheltered there. Parents should not go to schools unless advised to do so.
- Stay in this room and listen to your local radio or television until local authorities tell you all is safe or you are told to evacuate.
- When local authorities announce the end of the emergency, ventilate your home by opening doors and windows and go outside.

EVACUATION

WHAT YOU SHOULD DO IF YOU ARE TOLD TO “PREPARE-TO-EVACUATE”

- DO NOT LEAVE YOUR HOME AT THIS STAGE!
- Stay tuned to your local radio and television for further instructions to prepare to evacuate.
- Prepare your home for a three-day absence: Turn off small appliances, faucets and lights, turn down the furnace, if it is on. Be sure all air conditioners and fans are off. Lock windows and doors.
- Check your “Emergency Supply Kit” making sure everything needed is there, and keep it close at hand.

WHAT YOU SHOULD DO IF YOU ARE TOLD TO “EVACUATE”

- An evacuation will be ordered if the community is threatened and there is time to safely evacuate in an orderly manner.
- Local officials will specify which areas of the community must evacuate and when they should actually leave.
- If the evacuation order applies to you, leave your area when instructed. Local officials will inform and direct you as to which route to follow to the designated safe shelter location identified for your use. Use one car per family. Close all car windows and vents. Listen to your radio for traffic information.
- When evacuating, take only necessities. Pets will not be allowed in shelters so provide adequate food and water for them.
- You may return to your home as soon as the emergency is declared over and it is safe to return.
- If the emergency involved an airborne hazardous material, open windows and doors when you return and stay outside until the building is well-ventilated.

FLOOD EMERGENCY

FLOODING

- Be alert to river and flash flood watches and warnings issued by the National Weather Service and announced on NOAA weather radio and local radio and television.
- Do not walk or drive through moving water.
- Move to higher ground or upper floors in buildings.
- If you live in a low-lying area or near a creek, pay close attention to water levels during heavy rain events, develop flood preparedness plans and purchase flood insurance from your local insurance agency or the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP). For NFIP information, call (1-800-427-4661).

WINTER STORM EMERGENCY

Heavy snowfall, ice, and extreme cold can immobilize an entire region. Even areas that normally experience mild winters can be hit with a major winter storm or extreme cold. Prepare for possible isolation in your home and possible power outages.

WHAT TO DO BEFORE THE WINTER SEASON

- Know winter terminology used by weather forecasters and monitor the National Weather Service's NOAA weather radio system and local radio and television for current weather information and forecasts.
- Prepare a home "Emergency Supply Kit" to include a battery-powered tone alerting weather radio and portable radio, flashlight, extra batteries, canned and ready-to-eat-food, matches, non-electric can opener, first aid supplies (including essential medications) and bottled water.
- Keep your car "winterized" and carry a "Winter Car Kit" in your car's trunk to include blankets, extra sets of dry clothing, a shovel, sand, tire chains, jumper cables, a first aid kit, a flashlight with extra batteries, and a brightly colored cloth to tie to the antenna.

ACTS OF TERRORISM

The probability of acts of terrorism is low. However, appropriate consideration and preparedness must be given to the potential use of biological, nuclear, incendiary, chemical, and explosive weapons against our population. With federal assistance, our region has and continues to become better prepared to address this threat. The intent of terrorism is to instill fear and disrupt our way of life. Education and common sense must be applied to this subject to minimize panic and irrational response.

Public safety response to acts of terrorism follows existing plans and procedures designed to protect the public. The potential use of biological weapons also involves the integration of appropriate public health and disease control guidelines and recommendations.

WHAT YOU SHOULD DO TO HELP PROTECT AGAINST ACTS OF TERRORISM

Be aware of suspicious packages, letters, and activities that might represent a public safety threat. Report these to your local law enforcement agency by calling "911."

HOW TO HANDLE SUSPICIOUS PACKAGES OR LETTERS

Some characteristics of suspicious mail:

- Has a handwritten or poorly typed address.
- It has an unidentified return address, or one that cannot be verified as legitimate or postmark different from return address.
- It is unlike the typical mail you receive.
- Has unusual weight, size, or more postage than necessary.
